

Harrison Global is excited to announce the acquisition of Massachusetts-based global ground transportation company, BostonCoach. This acquisition will significantly expand Harrison Global's core operations of providing corporate travel through limousine, shuttle, bus, sedan and other chauffeured services. “This acquisition represents a significant expansion to Harrison’s business that will allow us to service more clients in more cities. We are proud to be bringing two great companies like Harrison and BostonCoach together,” said Harrison managing partner Russ Cooke. The management team will spend the next several months working to integrate the two companies’ operating systems in order to streamline business and create one superior brand of ground transportation. “BostonCoach is one of the world’s largest providers of ground transportation and they display the kind of industry standards that Harrison Global expects. We anticipate a smooth integration and improved performance that will ultimately make for the best possible experience for all of our customers,” said managing partner Bill Gemmill. BostonCoach currently operates out of Everett, MA; Philadelphia; New York City; Newark, NJ; Chicago and Washington DC.
